

Thank you to all who attended Congressman Ben Quayle's Foreclosure Prevention and Assistance Event!

“This event was a testament to the hope and determination that all struggling homeowners hold, and to the perseverance and drive to overcome life’s obstacles that stand in their way of living the American Dream. In tough economic times like these, it is very important to me to assist my constituents any way that I can. Hosting job fairs and foreclosure prevention and assistance events are powerful tools to reach out to our community and let them know that there are people out there who are willing and able to help.”

– Congressman Ben Quayle
